Summarize Project Accomplishments:

With the help of AZSFWC grant funding, Tucson Audubon successfully expanded Project Death Pipes efforts by conducting on-the-ground work in raising public awareness and organizing workdays to permanently cap open vertical pipes to prevent future wildlife deaths.

Our project accomplishments by goal:

1. Educate the public about the danger of open vertical pipes to small wildlife.
 - We printed 1000 educational brochures that are an excellent tool to reach the public during outreach events. The brochures include information about the issue, ways to cap open pipes and a way to report them using an online form. AZSFWC support is recognized in the brochures.
 - We provided educational materials at 11 outreach events:

- Quail Fest
 - Sonoita Cowboy Days
 - Wings Over Willcox Birding Festival
 - Southeast Arizona Birding Festival
 - Arizona Bird Conservation Initiative (2)
 - Desert Fence Busters Volunteer Events (5)
 - We spread the word about the issue via online and print media:
 - Blogpost that was advertised in our social media and email news: <https://tucsonaudubon.blogspot.com/2023/06/torture-within-hidden-threat-of-death.html>
 - Tucson Audubon Vermilion Flycatcher magazine, Spring 2024 issue (print).
 - Friends of Ironwood Forest newsletter: <https://drive.google.com/file/d/1zLYCZfhzKvl-sGCfCMD7WpgMb1i43UDD/view>
 - Copper Courier article: <https://coppercourier.com/2024/02/07/desert-fence-busters-pipes/>
 - Coalition for Sonoran Desert Protection monthly report.
 - We presented about the issue at the Arizona Bird Conservation Initiative meetings (2) and Desert Fence Busters events (5).
2. Locate, document and cap open vertical pipes
- Our online reporting form collected 667 submissions of open vertical pipes (public reports and targeted area searches).
 - Death Pipe search component was incorporated into existing bird survey efforts.
 - Developed an affordable and durable way to cap the open pipes by creating a tight cardboard plug then topping it with cement to ensure a permanent closure.
 - Reached out to agencies to encourage them to incorporate Death Pipe management into their Best Management Practices (BMP) manuals.
 - Forest Service pledged to incorporate Death Pipes management into their BMPs. FS staff conducted a work day at Sabino Canyon which resulted in 50 pipes capped.
 - Ensured Pima County and City of Tucson provided Death Pipes guidelines in their BMPs. All new fence anchoring pipes on lands managed by these two agencies will be installed already capped.
 - Collaborated with the Desert Fence Busters group to join efforts in their fence removal work days. Now, any time they have volunteer days to remove unnecessary barbed wire, Tucson Audubon staff is available to educate volunteers and permanently cap remaining anchoring pipes.
 - A total of 641 open vertical pipes were capped under this grant:
 - Catalina Regional Park: 142
 - City of Tucson properties (via Desert Fence Busters events): 275
 - Columbus Park: 160
 - Other locations: 64

We are especially proud of our efforts reinvigorating existing external agency efforts as well as inspiring new efforts to tackle this issue through BMP incorporation. While difficult to estimate an exact number, our most conservative estimates show that we prevented the deaths of thousands of small animals like birds, lizards, rodents and snakes in perpetuity.

We are grateful for the generous support of Arizona Sportsmen for Wildlife Conservation in making this project possible.

Taking Action:

This year, we are proud to announce that we have received a grant from Arizona Sportsmen for Wildlife Conservation to raise public awareness about this issue and take concrete steps to address it in Southeast Arizona. However, we cannot achieve our mission without your assistance. If you encounter an open vertical pipe, please report it through our website using the form at tucsonaudubon.org/deathpipes. We ask for a few details about the pipe's location and dimensions and a photo if possible. We also kindly ask that you temporarily cap the pipe with readily available objects until we can arrive to permanently address the issue.

Tucson Audubon's Death Pipes Project

- Open vertical pipes are a danger to small wildlife
- Tucson Audubon is looking to locate and permanently cap open pipes
- Report pipes using Survey123
- Often used in fences, gates, mine claim markers, trail markers and vault toilets.
- If pipe doesn't serve a ventilation purpose please temporarily cap with items at hand ventilation or irrigations, specialized screens and caps are available on the market.

Death pipes are an easily overlooked but important threat to tackle. By increasing awareness, actively locating and capping death pipes, we can prevent these unnecessary deaths for years to come. With the support of organizations like Arizona Sportsmen for Wildlife Conservation and individuals like you, we can make a difference!
